

MILK STRIKE OF FARMERS SPREADS TO WASHINGTON ALSO TO NEW ENGLAND

Violence Begins in New York Where Dealers and Shippers Clash

MASKED MEN UPSET WAGON

Shot Fired Into Crowded Street Car and Lawlessness Wide Spread in Carmen's Ranks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Indications were today that the milk strike in New York may spread to the national capital. Maryland and Virginia leaders who supply the city meet Thursday to determine how they shall enforce their demands for increased prices.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—The first step in the battle of New England farmers to procure a higher price for their milk from the large contractors in Boston has been won. One large contractor and three small ones have agreed to pay the producers the prime demanded—30 cents for an average eight and a half quart can of milk.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Violence which in ruthlessness surpasses that of the most riotous days of the New York traction strike has begun to mark the war between the big milk dealers and the up-state farmers. Irving P. Waite of Wingdale, lies in a Dutchess county hospital at the point of death. Men lying in ambush behind bushes set upon him while he was trying to take a load of milk to the station. He was beaten into unconsciousness. At Cassville, Oneida county, three masked men captured a milk wagon and dumped its contents on the road. Thousands of gallons of milk have been emptied in the roadside ditches of New York and New Jersey and at many points ribbons of reddened white rivals testify to hot hand to hand fights. Meanwhile prospects of a threatened milk famine in New York City being averted are steadily darkening. The hopes of the New York public are pinned upon the outcome of the investigation begun by Attorney General Woodbury into complaints by both sides of the controversy. The point at issue is whether either side, or both, have violated the Donnelly anti-trust law.

Today's milk supply was less than 50 per cent of the normal delivery. State Commissioner of Foods and Markets John J. Dillon predicted today that by Friday the city would be practically without milk. He said that babies would be affected by the famine, adding that the big distributors could avert it by a stroke of the pen.

The dealers stand pat on their refusal to treat with the Dairywomen's League. They declare that arrangements are being made to get a full supply regardless of the New York farmers but refuse to disclose their source of supply.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Although the movement for a general sympathetic strike has been abandoned, violence continues in the walkout of traction workers. A shot was fired into a crowded street car at 114th street and Third avenue today, wounding Welville Wright, a passenger. Paul broke out and the policeman guarding the car had difficulty in restoring order.

The traction strike in New York City has settled down to "trench warfare" according to the leaders. Officials of the union declare that the men will stick out to the end in spite of the failure to bring about a general tieup.

Increased rioting on the Westchester county lines is feared as a result of action taken by the aldermen of Mt. Vernon today. They abolished an ordinance which prohibited the use of strikebreakers. During their meeting the aldermen were guarded from strikes by a big force of police.

$750,000 SAUSAGE FACTORY BURNED

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—Damage to the amount of $750,000 was caused early today by fire in the packing plant of Morris and Company here. The flames started in the sausage department and destroyed the plant with the exception of the office, fertilizer and beef killing plants. Seven hundred employees of the company rushed to the plant and helped fight the flames.

Lima Wilson-Cox Club Formed By Young Men; Will Organize County

WILSON RECEPTION PLANS.

Arrangements for the reception of Woodrow Wilson when the chief executive passes through Lima tomorrow will be under the supervision of the newly-formed Young Men's Wilson-Cox club. Members are to meet at the headquarters, Morris arcade, at 2 o'clock, and a band will head the procession to the Pennsylvania station. In case a larger crowd is secured it is certain that President Wilson will deliver a short rear-platform address.

The presidential special, en route to Omaha, will run as the second section of train nineteen, due here at 2:57. A telegram from State Executive Committee Chairman William L. Finley states that no stops are scheduled for Ohio, but that brief talks from the train are assured. As a five-minute speech has been arranged for Alliance, it is highly probable that the president will consent to speak at Lima.

By David W. Bowman.

With an attendance of nearly a hundred at the initial meeting, the Young Men's Wilson-Cox club organized last night at the headquarters of the county executive committee, Morris arcade, electing a full set of officers and laying plans for a reception to President Woodrow Wilson on his arrival in Lima tomorrow afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by Attorney Warren J. McLaughlin. The officers chosen to guide the organization through the coming campaign are Frank Callahan, president, Guy Butler, vice president, C. P. Morris, secretary, and Emmett R. Curtin, Jr., treasurer. All were elected unanimously. Geographically they are well distributed throughout the city and all portions of Lima are represented in the organization.

President Callahan appointed Warren J. McLaughlin, Don M. Burton and D. W. Bowman to draw up a constitution and submit the report for adoption at a special meeting to be called by the chair within a few days.

On account of the large and enthusiastic turnout of young men from all parts of the city, addresses were invited from several members of the ticket and the executive committee. Ben F. Welty, congressional nominee, started the fireworks with a review of the record of the Wilson administration. The periodical pledge of the G. O. P. with regard to merchant marine legislation, he said, has failed for 40 years to bring results, until the present congress controlled by the democrats brought forth a movement toward the redemption of American commerce on the seas. Turning to Roosevelt's Battle Creek speech of Saturday, Col. Welty declared that only those who are in the mood for fighting in Mexico or Europe should support Hughes candidates. As Roosevelt, destined to be secretary of state in case the bewhiskered candidate enters the White House, cannot fail to invoke hostilities from some quarter or other as long as the attitude expressed at the sanitarium city represents his mental frame "I had a shot at the war game in '98," he said, "and I'm strong for the president who has kept us out of war without less of national honor. Why should we kill a number of American boys to protect the invested interests of Hearst and his kind? I know you boys would willingly fight in a righteous cause, but I know you are not anxious to fight the battles of Wall Street."

Prosecuting Attorney Ortha O. Barr, the next speaker, urged the younger men to take more interest in political matters, especially the affairs of the nation at large. Vital problems are being handled and solved in our generation which history will consider as great as those of past generations, he said, and it is the duty of every young man to take an interest in what is going on in the government.

Kent W. Hughes, candidate for the court of appeals, followed Barr. He declared that throughout the 16 counties which lie in the Third judicial district there is a growing sentiment in favor of Wilson. At the Ottawa meeting last week, he stated, there were more than a hundred young democrats present to organize a club similar to that which he addressed. "The senatorial candidate from the rock-ribbed republican county of Wood was there and stated that he believed the democrats would carry the county," said Hughes, adding that Bowling Green was the home of the republican campaign head, Charles S. Hatfield. Applause greeted the declaration that when the German merchant submarine "Deutschland" sailed into her home port of Bremen the flag she carried at her foremast was the American banner, a fact which he declared significant of a reversal of sentiment among the German-Americans, who are beginning to realize that Wilson has been as friendly toward the fatherland as international law would allow him to be.

Chairman David E. Baxter of the county central committee was the next to address the new organization. He spoke primarily of the use and purpose to which such an organization can be applied. "A vote is worth nothing until it's in the ball-box," he said.

BETTER CALL OUT POLICE RESERVES

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Indications this afternoon were that there is going to be no "making up" when former Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft meet at the reception to be tendered to Charles E. Hughes at the Union League club here tonight. Colonel Roosevelt came to the city during the day from his home in Oyster Bay but he refused flatly to discuss his probable meeting with Mr. Taft tonight. Friends of the two said they would shake hands and exchange greetings. None claimed, however, that the two will become intimate friends again.

UNIDENTIFIED BODY OF MAN IS FOUND IN LAKE AT M'CULLOUGH PARK

Possibly That of Person Whose Lodge Insurance Was Due on October 1st

The body of an unidentified man about 30 years of age, was found about 9 o'clock this morning in McCullough's lake by "Dusty" Reeves, colored. Police officials were notified of the find and they in turn called Coroner Curtiss. The body was towed to the shore of the lake by a party of men in boats and taken to the Whitley morgue to await identification. It is the belief of police and Coroner Curtiss that the man lived in this vicinity as he was entirely dressed with the exception of a hat, vest and coat. The coroner is of the opinion that the man was drowned when drunk or committed suicide.

While on his way fishing this morning, Reeves noticed something projecting out of the water between the eastern bank of the lake and the island. Thinking at first that it might be a fish, he walked along the embankment between the river and the lake until directly opposite it. On reaching this position he discovered that the object resembled a human head and hurried back to the boat house and notified Charles Manard.

Several boat loads of rescuers immediately set out for the spot where the man was seen by Reeves and on finding that the body was lifeless immediately notified police. Whitley's ambulance was summoned to the scene and a hastily organized rescue squad tied a rope around the arm of the unfortunate victim and towed it to shore behind a row boat.

BODY AT MORGUE.

During the morning scores of persons visited the morgue in an attempt to identify the victim. No marks or papers were found in the clothes of the victim to throw any light on his identity. The fact that he was without a coat, hat or vest leads police to believe that the man lived in Lima.

The coroner is also firmly convinced that the body is that of a local man. As it is his supposition that the body had been in the water about a week and that during this period the weather has been cool at times, he is of the opinion that the man could hardly have been a transient because of the numerous missing pieces of wearing apparel.

Police Chief McKinney will notify homes in the city where male members of the household have been reported missing within the past week in an attempt to identify the body. Although in most all such cases the disappearance was for but a day, it is stated that several men are still missing from their homes.

While the clothes of the victim were not of the best, they were apparently of fairly good quality. The shirt was new and had never been laundered. A pair of solid gold cuff links were found in the sleeves of the shirt.

RUMANIANS CROSS THE DANUBE AND FORCE THE ENEMY BACK; GERMANS STRIKE AT RUMANIA

Servians Press Teuton Allies in Moacedonia and Capture Trenches

FRENCH HOLD IN WEST

Paris Reports Repulse of Foe After Artillery Combat With Great Losses to Kaiser

LONDON, Oct. 3.—War interest centered today on the fighting in the Rumanian theatre of hostilities. Consequences of major importance may attend the invasion of Bulgaria by a Rumanian army. The indications are that the Rumanians will try to strike at the rear of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army compelling its retirement from Dobrudja.

On the northern front of the Rumanian war theatre the Germans under Von Falkenhayn are pressing forward in the region of Rothenburg Pass with the evident intention of trying to invade Rumania from that quarter. Violent actions are in progress there.

On the Somme front the past 24 hours have been comparatively quiet except for local fighting and artillery combats. The Germans attacked the French at St. Pierre Vaast woods, east of Comblès, but were dispersed with severe losses.

More reverses have been suffered by the Bulgarians in the Macedonian zone of operations. The Bulgarians tried to win back some of the ground lost to the British on the Struma front, but were driven off. On the western end of this front the Servians continue their pressure against the German allies, having captured a Bulgarian trench.

In Galicia the Russians keep up their attacks. Vast forces of Austro-German soldiers are thus engaged there preventing Von Hindenburg from sending reinforcements to other fronts where the German allies are hard pressed.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Strong counter attacks have been undertaken by the Germans to prevent the French from advancing against Bapaume from the south. The French war office in its official communique today states that Germans assaulted the French at St. Pierre Vaast woods, north of Bapaume, but were hung back with heavy losses.

An artillery duel was in progress north of Rancourt all night.

SOFIA, Oct. 3.—Gains for the allies in Greek Macedonia was admitted by the Bulgarian war office today. In the sector of Kalmakalan heights the Bulgarians withdrew to avoid unnecessary losses under the heavy artillery fire of the Servians retreating to their main position in the Mogena mountains.

On the eastern end of the front in the Struma valley, the Bulgarians retired from the villages of Karadjakusi, Jenikeus and Mevolen but the last two were subsequently re-occupied in counter attacks.

ALLIES ENTER BULGARIA

Rumanians Cross Danube and Force Enemy Back.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Fighting is in progress upon Bulgarian soil for the first time since the war began. The Rumanian army that swept across the Danube near Rutchuk has not only carried hostilities into King Ferdinand's kingdom, but is menacing the rear of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's forces which invaded Rumania by the way of Dobrudja province. Rumania's latest stroke may have a powerful influence upon operations in the Balkans by compelling the Bulgarians to weaken the army which is operating against the allies in Macedonia.

This counter blow also offsets the results of the German gain in Transylvania and may compel the Germans and Austro-Hungarians to send reinforcements to prevent a drive into the heart of Bulgaria.

An advance by the Rumanians into Bulgaria menaces the line of communications between the central empires and Turkey. Both Germany and Austria have showed by their military operations of the past year that they regard this line as vital and are determined to hold it open at all hazards.

It is believed by military experts in London that the army of Germans, Bulgarians and Turks under Von Mackensen must take up a new position at once to meet the Rumanians which will mean another retreat for the conqueror of Serbia. In Galicia the Russians are still pounding away at the Austro-German and Turkish lines in the renewal of their drive against Lemberg.

By this new push General Brusilov is keeping vast forces of the German allies engaged, thus preventing them from reinforcing their lines elsewhere.

KILLS LOBSTER FISHERMAN.

MARSHFIELD, Mass., Oct. 3.—Dr. Ralph Baker, 35, a prominent dentist of the South Shore, formerly of Boston, today shot and killed William Cushing, a local lobster fisherman, on the main street in the little village of Green Harbor, just outside of Marshfield.

Dr. Baker was arrested. He is married and has two children. Cushing is single.

COUNCIL SUBMITS $500,000 ISSUE OF LIMA SEWER BONDS

At the meeting of the city council last night plans were prepared for submitting a $500,000 bond issue to be used in the building of adequate sewers and the construction of a disposal plant for the city of Lima, as directed by the state board of health. Governor Willis and Attorney General Turner signed an order to this effect yesterday. The city is given two years to complete the improvement. A special meeting of the council will be held tonight to pass an ordinance for the improvement.

Although several members of the council last night objected to the submission of a bond issue calling for $500,000 at the November election, when President Price called for a vote on the proposal presented by Rowlands, every member of the body voted for the improvement.

The most serious objection advanced by members who at first were opposed to the bond issue, was the fact that so many bond issues have been submitted to citizens of Lima within the past two years that it might meet with defeat. These objections were overruled when it was pointed out that legislation toward the improvement should be started soon and that it might be necessary to go to the added expense of a special election if it was not presented to voters in November.

Assistant Solicitor Garling informed members of council that if the order was not complied with in the time designated by the state board of health that each member of the council in addition to all city officials would be subject to a fine of $500 each.

According to the plan advanced by Engineer Bryson, storm and intercepting sewers will be constructed in addition of the disposal plant. The intercepting sewer will carry all sewage to a point below the city and thus prevent obnoxious odors from creeping into the business district.

Plans prepared by J. F. Cupp, of the city engineer's office, were accepted by the council instead of the Sherman plan. An ordinance was passed ordering Service Director Mooney to immediately proceed with the work improving the river.

The final report of the right-of-way committee will be submitted to the council on October 16. Several members stated that cost of land to be purchased by the city touching the river banks can be obtained at a figure close to $20,000.

Assistant Solicitor Garling was ordered to prepare the necessary legislation toward granting the L. E. & Western railroad permission to lay eight tracks across the Wapakoneta road and also to complete other improvements.

SUIT FOR WAGES.

Emma Hill asks for $500 in a suit filed yesterday from John Mangus, as administrator of the estate of Rosanna Franklin, deceased. She says she was a servant in the home and performed this work at Mrs. Franklin's request. She says she was thus employed from May, 1914, until April 20, 1916.

ASK $2,000 DAMAGE FOR LOSS OF HUSBAND LOVE

Mrs. Hazel F. Jewell, wife of Ernest A. Jewell, yesterday afternoon instituted suit in court against B. G. Jewell and Maggie, his wife, for damages in the sum of $2,000. The Jewells are parents of Ler husband.

She alleges that on September 17, 1916, Jewell and his wife, "intending to defraud her of the affections, society, support and maintenance of her husband and while they were living happily together, persuaded and enticed her husband to depart and leave her and to refuse to provide any of the necessities of life for her."

She says her husband left and refused and still refuses to contribute to her support.

SECOND WEDDING HELD.

Elmer Stettler and Miss Bertha Honigfort, who were married in Lima on August 28, were re-married at St. John's Catholic church rectory in Delphos at noon on last Saturday. The Rev. Father Rupert, pastor of St. John's church, officiated at the service.

The bride is a member of the Roman Catholic church. It was decided to have the service of that church performed at this time. Miss Edna Honigfort and Leander Honigfort, sister and brother of the bride, were attendants.

A reception was held in their honor on Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Honigfort, of Delphos.

HUGHES ELECTION MEANS WAR, AVERS SENATOR POMERENE

Ohio's Senior Solon Addresses Cleveland Women's City Club.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—"Election of Hughes means war because he wishes to substitute deeds for words while the re-election of Woodrow Wilson means the continuance of peace, plenty and prosperity as well as peace with honor," said United States Senator Pomerene as he addressed the Women's City Club here at noon today on the subject: "What the Administration's Foreign Policy Means to the Women of the Nation."

Senator Pomerene drew a word picture of the devastation and suffering in Europe and contrasted conditions there with "peaceful and prosperous conditions now obtaining in the United States as a result of the president's foreign policy."

"While the women in this land are enjoying the companionship of their fathers, husbands, brothers and sons and are living in plenty as a result of the prosperity which is abroad in the land, the women of Europe are shedding bitter tears because their men are either dead or suffering untold agony in the hospitals or prison camps in some foreign land, or in the trenches fighting their country's battles in the most bloody struggle in the world's history," said the senator. "After the war, when those who have not fallen upon the field of battle return to their beloved ones they will return mere shadows of their former selves."

"The husbands, sons and brothers who went forth to battle at their country's call, vigorous in body and mind, will return to their firesides a physical wreck, due to their exposure to the elements, the gases and the most effective death-dealing implements of destruction ever devised by the mind and hand of man. They will return a burden to those whom they formerly provided with the necessities of life. The most fertile imagination cannot adequately describe the suffering which the women of the nations engaged in this struggle will have to undergo as a result of this war—the sport of kings."

BORAD APPROVES LIMA ENLARGEMENT

The county commissioners today granted the annexation of a large tract of land, lying mostly in Perry township, to the city. Previously the city had voted to annex the territory, and today the commissioners gave their consent. The whole is included save that used for school purposes.

Norval Heights, Sugar Grove addition and the Mackenzie subdivision on St. Johns avenue, are among the additions included in the annexation.

Three hundred acres are to be added to the city by the extension. The new line on the south starts at a point on the Chicago and Erie right of way just east of the D. T. & I. tracks, runs parallel to the latter to a point 90 feet south of Fourth street, thence west to the projected line of Hughes avenue, thence south to the range line, range 7, thence west to McClain road, thence north to a point just north of the Ohio steel foundry property, where it joins the present line. The legal proceedings involved will require two months, so the voting and registration for the fall election will not be affected by the alteration.

SUIT TO QUIET TITLE.

The court today quieted title to land in Bath township, in the case of Reuben Thut against E. J. and Rose Elliott. The petition as prayed for, was granted.

The Central fire department answered a call out to the old ice house on East High street this morning. The house which is practically torn down caught fire and forced the fire ladders to devote several of their minutes in extinguishing the blaze.

HELD FOR SLAYING WOMAN, HE DENIES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 3.—Confronted by damaging evidence, John Albert, 64, of Ashtabula, O., today still maintained that he is not the slayer of Mrs. St. John, 65, of Mayfield, N. Y., whose body was found in the woods near here Sunday with two bullet holes in the head. Mrs. St. John, according to Sheriff Berry was lured to Grand Rapids by a promise of marriage. Albert purchased a revolver the day before she arrived. The weapon was found in a handbag in which Mrs. St. John had brought her life's savings. Six persons have identified Albert as the man who took Mrs. St. John to a cheap lodging house and later drove her into the country, ostensibly to buy a farm on which they were to live.

ST. PAUL'S A. M. E. CHURCH GIVES ITS PASTOR GODSPEED

About 100 members of St. Paul's A. M. E. church assembled at the home of the pastor, the Rev. J. E. Hagins, of 130 West Spring street, last night, to pay their respects and show appreciation of the services rendered by him and his family to the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Hagins leaves soon for Hot Springs, Ark., for an extended rest and to recuperate his health.

It is hoped he will resume the pastorate upon his return. Vocal and instrumental musical numbers and addresses made up the program. Mrs. Hagins and daughter Mrs. Hagins, gave a duet, Miss Marie Stanley favored with an instrumental number, and Mrs. Alston, accompanied by Mrs. Hagins, sang.

Addresses were made by the Rev. L. R. Mitchell and the Rev. Edward Glover. John Morin was toastmaster, calling upon Earl Harrison, Mrs. Alston, a visiting evangelist and Mrs. Mary Hornaday, chairman of the board of stewards, for talks.

The work of the past year was reviewed and the report was most gratifying. From a membership of 100, the gain has been largely on the increase. Plans for the new church are well under way. In glowing terms the work of the pastor the past year was praised. A purse of $100 was given the Rev. Mr. Hagins as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the congregation and to cheer him on his way towards health.

The committee in charge of the reception consisted of D. W. Day, Charles Stewart, Mary Hornaday, Belle Curtis, Miss Minnie Morin, Miss Martha Campbell, Mrs. Janu Edwards and A. J. Burden.

Prayers were invoked for the return of the Rev. Mr. Hagins, restored to health. He is one of the ablest ministers in the Ohio general conference and has served well the local church.

Had Woodman Notice. In one of the trouser pockets was found a corner of the twenty-first page of the Sovereign Visitor, a publication issued by the Woodman of the World. On one side of the paper was printed an advertisement in regard to the disappearance of one, Charles L. Moore along with a photograph of the missing man.

The article stated that the man's home was in Fraser, Colorado. The weight and height of the missing man tallied somewhat with that of the body found this morning. Both weigh in the neighborhood of 135 pounds and each is about 5 feet, 10 inches tall. The article stated that a reward of $200 would be paid for the location of the missing man.

The other advertisement offered a reward for the capture of John Goggins, colored, 45 years of age, who is wanted in Apopka, Florida, on a charge of murder. The article stated that Goggins killed a clerk of the Woodman organization. The weight in this case also tallied closely with that of the unidentified man in Whitley's morgue.

On the opposite side of the page was an announcement notifying members of the Woodman organization that their annual payment of dues must be made before October 1, 1916. Police are of the opinion that this may have caused him to commit suicide. The article emphatically stated that failure to pay the assessment would result in suspension.

Possible Cause. Officials think that the piece of paper found in the pocket of the victim was the direct cause of death. The theory is advanced that when he found that he would be unable to pay his dues, which he knew would result in suspension, he chose to commit suicide rather than face the dishonor of being suspended from the organization.

When the body was first found it was standing straight up in the water. Seaweed covered the lower part of the body and probably assisted it in maintaining the upright position in the lake. Owing to the number of days in the water the face of the victim was badly bloated making identification somewhat more difficult. Decomposition had already started making it impossible to definitely certain the real cause of death.

Outside the scrap of paper the only other possessions found on the person of the unidentified man was a knife and some buttons. Coroner Curtiss offered a reward of $5 for the recovery of the hat and coat of the victim. Numerous searching parties failed to find any trace of the missing wearing apparel in the vicinity of the drownings.

Although police were at first of the opinion that the man had met with foul play, "his theory was abandoned when the body of the man showed no bruises or marks of violence. A search of the neighborhood surrounding the lake is being made by police in hopes of finding some clue to the identity of the man.

SUES FOR $1,492,997.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 3.—A breach of contract suit for $1,192,997 has been filed in the United States district court, New York, against the White Company, Cleveland automobile manufacturers, by Sergey F. Fride. Fride says the White Company refused to fill an order for 1,000 auto trucks from Russia in 1914, and his commission in that one order would have amounted to more than $1,000,000.

WOMAN CHOKES SQUIRREL.

GENEVA, O., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Mary Polkow, of Harpersfield, is the champion squirrel hunter of this city. When she reached under a tomato vine on her farm a big fox squirrel grabbed one of her fingers. He let go after Mrs. Polkow had choked him to death.

TOLEDO GIRL IS CHARGED WITH SHOOTING CHUM

TOLEDO, Oct. 3.—Vera Vandora was to be arraigned in police court today charged with shooting to death Maude Acker last November. The Vandora girl was arrested two days ago on the story of Clara Reed, who said the three girls were in a room together when the Vandora girl, in handling a revolver, accidentally discharged it and killed the Acker girl.

Up to the time the Reed girl made this statement it had been supposed that the Acker girl committed suicide. Such was the coroner's verdict at the time. The Reed girl said she was led to make the statement because there were "too many in the secret."

There were some unusual developments in connection with the case at the time of the girl's death. She was buried in Sandusky and Sandusky police claim she has wealthy relatives there but decline to tell who they are.

A few days after her burial, E. D. Nietzey went to Sandusky, bought a cemetery lot next to that where the Acker girl was buried, and spent most of his time for a week, day and night, at the girl's grave. His actions finally aroused suspicion, and he was arrested. His pockets contained a revolver, a note to the coroner, telling that he contemplated suicide, and asking to be buried beside the Acker girl, and a letter addressed to the prosecutor, charging the girl had been murdered. This letter was sent to Toledo police, but they still stuck to the suicide theory.

Later Nietzey received a letter from his wife in Washington, D. C., and went there, from where word came later that he had committed suicide.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Marriage licenses were issued today, as follows: Joseph B. Tooley, 30, pressman, and Catherine Shaw, 23, cigar-maker, both of Lima.

DANIELS TO FACE TRIAL TOMORROW

Charles Daniels, indicted for rape by the Allen county grand jury, will face trial Wednesday morning. Daniels was arrested on the afternoon of August 30, after he had attacked Miss Vivian Baber, wife of John Baber, a Shawnee township farmer, in her home. Mrs. Baber will tell her story at the trial.

When court is called tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock Daniels will be brought into the room. The regular trial jury, which was called at the beginning of the September term of court, will sit at the trial. A new venire may be necessary, but the regular petit jury list will first be called tomorrow morning in an effort to secure a jury.

The petit jury is made up of the following: Benjamin Freet of Monroe township; R. W. Risher, Lima; J. C. Dunlap and John Sole, St. Harrod; George Ream, Bluffton; W. E. Kelly and Christopher Towne, Lima; Clifford Bress, Shawnee township; C. E. Craig, Lima; J. T. Shick, Shawnee township; Charles S. Martz, Lima; F. R. Moore, Richmond township; John Decker, Rich township; Noah Amshberger, Jackson township; Grover Polz, Appleton township; Albert T. Stodole, Lima; Delbert McBride, Elida; Walter Baber, Monroe township; L. W. Mowery, Lima.

Judge William Klinger will hear the case. About 14 witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify.

NO MORE BACKACHE FOR HER.

Mrs. J. M. Gaskill, Elma Green, Ind., writes: "I suffered from severe backache and sharp pains. I could not stoop over. Foley Kidney Pills gave me such relief that I cannot praise them too highly." This standard remedy for kidney trouble and bladder ailments can be taken with absolute safety. H. F. Vortkamp.

KIPKER FUNERAL WEDNESDAY.

Funeral services for Benjamin Kipker of 715 Holly street, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence, conducted by the Rev. J. Norman King of Olivet Pre-bbyterian church. Interment will be in Woodland. Kipker, who was an employee of the Solar refinery, died yesterday.

SUIT FOR MONEY.

Alleging Agnes H. and William G. Graham borrowed from her the amount of $2,525, Ann Eliza Simpson filed suit in court to secure judgment against them. She says interest on a part of the money has never been paid. The money was borrowed to purchase inlet No. 112 in Lakewood sub-division, of Lima. Plaintiff says.

Mr and Mrs. C. M. Tolan were in Delphos, Sunday, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Walter W. Reul, held at the family home in that place.

VISITING NURSES REPORT FOR MONTH

The Lima Instructive Visiting Nurse association will soon inaugurate a campaign to secure funds to continue the good work they have been doing in Lima for the past several years. It is hoped, at that time, that the response may be great enough that a third nurse can be placed in the field.

With Lima increasing its population by leaps and bounds, the need of a third nurse is apparent to those in charge. During the past month 442 visits were made in the homes of Lima people to care for the sick ones there. The full report, as filed by Miss Marie Meuller, superintendent, is as follows:

Number of Continued Cases	23
Number of New Cases	43
Total Number of Cases	66
Patients Discharged	44
Patients Died	2
Patients Sent to Hospital	2
Number of Patients Remaining Under Care	22

Number of Visits in Homes... 442

USED IT ELEVEN YEARS.

There is one remedy that for many years has given relief from coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Mrs. Chas. Rietz, Allen Mills, Pa., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar for the past eleven years and I would not be without it." It promptly relieves hoarseness, tickling throat and wheezy breathing. H. MORE CHANGES IN CAST OF "THE WISHING RING"

At the end of the first week's rehearsals of the musical extravaganza "The Wishing Ring", to be presented by local talent in the opera house October 12th and 13th, under the auspices of the Child Welfare association, the cast has been satisfactorily arranged and the work is well under way. Mr. Adams who is staging the play has had a busy week, since aside from the actual rehearsals, the selection and final classification of talent which must precede these is a matter requiring great care and much "trying out", on the part of the performers.

Some changes were necessary in the groups, since the committees who selected the talent cannot, of course, be aware of many physical qualifications necessary for the successful portrayal of the various fairy creatures appearing in "The Wishing Ring". So it is a common occurrence says Mr. Adams that three times as many are "tried out" as will appear in the final groups. Nearly every one appearing in "The Wishing Ring" must be able to dance, hence he regards grace a prime requisite in selecting the talent. For a story book land character he insists that a certain ethereal quality must attend the portrayal of the fairy element. Hence, the necessity for changing many of the characters selected by the committee.

Rehearsals are held day and evening in the Chamber of Commerce. The director is exceedingly enthusiastic over his talent here and feels that the production when staged will equal the best that he has presented in any city.

It may be telling tales out of school, but the stage directions provide that "Jean" the character Miss Helen Pence will take, and which is the leading speaking part, makes up as a little girl ten to twelve years of age. The directions "as Jean has so much to do, her personality must be especially pleasing," have certainly been carried out to the letter.

Clever and vivacious Miss Bonnie Linn will be seen as Marjorie Daw, the "star comedy" part and her lines will require her always to be doing "stunts" while on the stage. Here again the part has been well taken.

Miss Marguerite Zender will be seen as Moon Beam, and has every qualification necessary to look the part and give a delightful interpretation.

In fact, "The Wishing Ring" has been admirably cast throughout. The dancing will be one of the features of the production. Dances are divided into groups and there will be a chaperon for each group.

JUDGMENT CONFESSED.

Simon Stoward yesterday confessed judgment in the sum of $229.76 in court, in favor of W. Warner, on a note given in Warner's favor, with interest.

Lima Wilson-Club Formed By Young Men; Will Organize County

(Continued from Page 1.) lot box" he stated, adding that the young men can be invaluable in getting the democrats and Wilson Republicans out for registration and subsequently for election. The young man of today is slated to become the party leader and worker of ten years hence, he added, and pointed out that those who show aptitude and interest will open up for themselves an opportunity to rise in public life later on.

Attorney Elmer McClain, former Bull Moose state executive committeeman now supporting Wilson, Cox, Pomerene, Welty, Kent Hughes and the rest of the ticket, states that he was not a "convert" to the cause of democracy primarily, but that as long as progressive legislation was passed by Wilson he was going to vote for those who did things instead of those who talk about doing things. "I didn't leave Roosevelt," he stated, "but I'm standing just where I did. If there was any leaving done Roosevelt did it."

On motion of Warren J. McLaughlin, the members present pledged themselves to be at the Pennsylvania station tomorrow afternoon to greet President Wilson. Each is to bring at least five rosters along with him. A band is to be hired and a parade started at the party headquarters at 2 o'clock, when the club as a body will march to the station to swell the crowd to such proportions that the president will deliver a short address.

As soon as plans can be formulated the organization is to be spread to the rest of the county. Meetings will be scheduled at Bluffton, Beaverdam, Spencerville, Delphos, Elida, Cairo, Harrod and other communities in Allen county, when auto trips and speakers' meetings will be arranged. The visit of Joseph H. McGhee, of Jackson, democratic candidate for attorney general, assistant in that office under Judson Harmon's administration, on October 12 and October 13, may be made the occasion of the extension of the local club.

City Auditor David L. Rupert this afternoon certified to the election board the socialist petition calling for an election on municipal ownership of the local telephone plant filed by Ed. Blank ten days ago. The board will now proceed to verify the signatures and locate any forgeries or frauds in the petition.

Registration will open Thursday morning, the first of the four registration days in October. Every voter in Lima must register before he can vote at the general election.

The registration places will be open between the hours of eight a. m. and two p. m. and between four and nine p. m., October 5, 12, 20 and 21.

OUT AGAIN, RIGHT IN AGAIN, RUSSELL

W. J. Russell, held in the Allen county jail to serve a sentence for petit larceny, finished his term yesterday afternoon and was allowed to depart. He had no more than left the jail until Bailiff John Wilson discovered Russell with a board, endeavoring to drop something to prisoners confined on the inside of the jail.

His movements were watched and when he left the jail he was apprehended just around the corner by Deputy Sheriff Marion Watt, who again looked Russell behind the doors of the jail.

As yet, Sheriff Eley is at a loss to know what Russell passed to the prisoners within the jail. He was confined in jail upon a warrant from the justice's court.

DRYS ARE JUBILANT.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—With a net gain four small towns to their side the "drys" were jubilant today as a result of the small town elections throughout the state. Six towns—East Cranby, Ridgefield, Salisbury, Cornwall and Plainfield—changed from "wet" to the "dry" column while Sprague and Griswold switched over to the wets.

A FEW QUOTATIONS

From the Republican platform of 1872:
It is the duty of the general government to adopt such measures as may tend to encourage and restore American commerce and shipbuilding.
From the Republican platform of 1884:
We demand the restoration of our navy to its old-time strength and efficiency, that it may in any sea protect the rights of American citizens and the interests of American commerce; and we call upon congress to remove the burdens under which American shipping has been depressed, so that it may again be true that we have a commerce which leaves no sea unexplored and a navy which takes no law from superior force.
From the Republican platform of 1896:
We favor restoring the American policy of discriminating duties for the upbuilding of our merchant marine and the protection of our shipping in the foreign carrying trade, so that American ships—the product of American labor, employed in American shipyards, sailing under the Stars and Stripes and manned, officered and owned by Americans—may regain the carrying of our foreign commerce.
From the Republican platform of 1904:
While every other industry has prospered under the fostering aid of Republican legislation American shipping engaged in foreign trade, in competition with the low costs of construction, low wages and heavy subsidies of foreign governments, has not for many years received from the government of the United States adequate encouragement of any kind. We therefore favor legislation which will encourage and build up the American merchant marine, and cordially approve the legislation of the last congress which created the merchant marine commission to investigate and report on this subject.
From the Republican platform of 1908:
We adhere to the Republican doctrine of encouragement to American shipping, and urge such legislation as will advance the merchant marine prestige of the country, so essential to the national defense, the enlargement of trade and the industrial prosperity of our own people.
From the Republican platform of 1916:
In view of the policies adopted by all the maritime nations to encourage their shipping interests and in order to enable us to compete with them for the ocean-carrying trade, we favor the payment to ships engaged in the foreign trade of liberal compensation for services actually rendered in carrying the mails, and such further legislation as will build up an adequate American merchant marine, and give us ships which may be requisitioned by the government in time of national emergency.

We are utterly opposed to the government ownership of vessels as proposed by the Democratic party, because government-owned ships, while effectively preventing the development of the American merchant marine by private capital, will be entirely unable to provide for the vast volume of American freights and will leave us more helpless than ever in the hard grip of foreign syndicates.

From The Congressional Record, May 20, 1916, page 9484:

A bill (H. R. 15,456) to establish a United States shipping board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and a naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its territories and with possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States, and for other purposes. Title of bill introduced by Chairman Alexander of the House Committee of Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

From The Congressional Record, same place, under list of representatives voting "nay":

Russell, of Ohio.
After the Republican party had pledged itself periodically to help establish a merchant marine, the Republican accidental congressman from the Fourth Ohio district voted against that measure when it finally came from the hands of a Democratic administration. He is on the ticket of a party pledged to merchant marine legislation, after voting "nay". As Chauncey Depew once remarked, the memory of mankind is short.

DESERVING OF LABOR'S SUPPORT

At an immense and enthusiastic meeting held in Brockton, Mass., last Friday night to organize a Wilson and Marshall club, John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, Mass., who was the chief speaker, dealt with the legislation enacted through President Wilson. He pointed out that under the Sherman anti-trust law, as it existed under Republican administrations for years, a labor union had no legal standing. He cited the cases of the Danbury Hatters, who were prosecuted by the supreme court of which Candidate Hughes, the Republican nominee, was a member. A Democratic congress, under Wilson, made it possible for labor unions to have a right to exist, he declared.

"If he did nothing else but sign this bill," the speaker said, "he is entitled to the support of labor. Another reason why he should be supported by labor is because of his attitude on the eight-hour law. Manufacturers all over the country were against it."

The spectacle of the "unholy alliance" between Colonel Roosevelt and the very men whom four years ago he denounced as "porch climbers," "second-story men," and as "grafters and crooks" continued to gain in interest and impressiveness each day of the campaign.

F. St. John Gaffney, consul general under Taft at Munich, the latest Hughes recruit, wishes he had been the man who sank the "Lusitania". Quite appropriate; the Hughes campaign as a whole seeks to sink the cause of progressive government in the United States.

We are still waiting to hear from Hughes as to which of the many laws enacted in the last four years by a Democratic congress he would have repealed.

There is little doubt as to which the country will believe in the controversy over the navy's efficiency, Admiral Dewey or Gussie Gardner.

GOOD EVENING: Be at the Pennsylvania station tomorrow to cheer for the man who has kept us out of war.

The President's Column

AMERICA.
The American revolution was the birth of a nation. It was the creation of a great free republic based upon traditions of personal liberty which heretofore had been confined to a single little island but which it was purposed should spread to all mankind. And the singular fascination of American history is that it has been a process of constant recreation of making over again in each generation the thing which was conceived at first. You know how peculiarly necessary that has been in our case, because America has not grown by the mere multiplication of the original stock—To Daughters of the American Revolution, Washington, October 11, 1915.

COLLEGE SIDE SHOWS.

I am among those who have the profoundest admiration and affection for the great educational establishments in this country. I am never worried about the school room. I am not the least anxious about what happens in the lecture room. But I am very anxious about what happens between exercises, about the life of the students in our schools and in our universities, for it is not institutions that form us; it is experience; it is life. What this country must look to, therefore, is this: Is the life of our colleges swallowing the instruction of our colleges? My own idea is that the side shows are swallowing the circus. I have found the main tent very poorly attended and all the side shows crowded. As long as that is the case, I don't care to be ringmaster in the main tent.—To Chamber of Commerce, Columbus, Sept. 20, 1912.

CURRENCY REFORM.

We must have a currency, not rigid as now, but readily, elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting credits of everyday transactions, the normal ebb and flow as personal and corporate dealings. Our banking laws must mobilize reserves; must not permit the concentration anywhere in a few hands of the monetary resources of the country or their use for speculative purpose in such volume as to hinder or impede or stand in the way of other more legitimate, more fruitful purposes. And the control of the system of banking, and of issue which our new laws are to set up must be public, not private, must be vested in the government itself.

so that the banks may be the instruments, not the masters, of business; and of individual enterprise and initiative—Address Delivered to Joint Session of Congress, June 23, 1913.

FLAG INSPIRES TO DUTY.

I was one citizen among millions whose heart beat in unison with it (preparation parade). I felt caught up and buoyed along by the great stream of human purpose which seemed to flow there in front of me by the stand by the White House, and I shall go away from this meeting as I came away from that parade, with all the deepest purposes of my heart renewed; and as I see the wind lovingly unfold the beautiful lines of our great flag, no matter how hard, no matter how long, which we shall tread while we vindicate the glory and honor of the United States.—Flag Day Speech, Washington, June 14, 1916.

EPIGRAMS.

It is not difficult or a capital operation to cut off a wart. You don't have to administer an anesthetic. It can be done while you wait.

I believe that democracy is the only thing that vitalizes a whole people instead of vitalizing some of the people of the country.

The idea of America is not so much that some one shall be restrained and punished by the law as to be instructed and guided by the law.

Peace costs something and the only way you can maintain peace is by thoroughly enjoying the respect of everybody with whom you deal.

There is only one way of holding the confidence of the American public and that is by deserving it. Loyalty is not a self-pleasing virtue.

PUBLIC FORUM

ROOSEVELT VS. ROOSEVELT.
To the Editor of The Times-Democrat:

On Tuesday, August 6, 1912, in a speech before the progressive national convention at Chicago, which Roosevelt declared was his "confession of faith," he said:

"The old parties are husks, with no real soul within them, divided on artificial lines, boss-ridden and privilege controlled, each a jumble of incongruous elements, and neither daring to speak out wisely and fearlessly what should be said on the vital issues of the day.

"This new movement is a movement of truth, sincerity and wisdom, a movement which proposes to put at the service of all our people the collective power of the people through their governmental agencies."

If Colonel Roosevelt told the truth about the republican party and believed what he said about the progressive party in that famous "confession," why did he betray it at Chicago last June? Why did he not make a strenuous and courageous fight for the party that had arisen to deliver the people from the boss-ridden and privilege-controlled republican party. Mr. Roosevelt is now fighting for the party he then so vigorously denounced, shoulder to shoulder with Boies, Penrose, Root, Murray, Crane, Senator Smoot and other bosses of various degrees of influence, whom he accused of stealing delegate votes for Taft in the republican convention.

Mr. Roosevelt was, four years ago, of opinion that a new party was needed. He said:

"If the country is really to go forward along the path of social and economic justice there must be a new party of nation-wide and non-sectarian principles."

Mr. Roosevelt declared in favor of the investigation of industrial conditions in the United States. The industrial commission authorized by congress, after thorough investigation, has made its report, covering every point touched upon by Mr. Roosevelt. The wage-earner, the former president said, was not getting a "square deal" from the republican party, because under republican tariff legislation, the "big men on top got the reward." The wage man gets what the tariff beneficiary thinks he ought to have.

Mr. Roosevelt declared we needed a better system of banking. The democratic congress and administration has given the country the best act it ever had.

Mr. Roosevelt declared "the anti-trust laws must be made stronger." This the present democratic congress and president did.

"The welfare of the farmer is the basic need of the nation," said the Bull Moose leader. Never before has there been so much beneficial legislation for the welfare of the farmer as was enacted by the present congress and approved by President Wilson.

To quote again from the Battling Roosevelt:

"Whatever fate may for the moment overtake any of us, the movement itself will not stop. Our cause is based on the eternal principles of righteousness, and even though we who now lead may for the time fall in the end the cause itself shall triumph."

Mr. Roosevelt is now seeking to defeat the "eternal principles of righteousness" by aiding the bosses to gain power to overthrow the "eternal principles of righteousness" and to perpetuate their control of national affairs.

He has turned his back on Arms-

geddon and ceased to "battle for the Lord."

TRIO

Of American Presidents

TOGETHER IN THEIR VIEWS ON PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, the last three chief executives and the participants in the triangular battle of 1912, have all expressed disapproval of the idea of public ownership.

Yesterday we presented the views of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, third president of the United States and for many years the most prominent figure of the nation, who had served in every public capacity from diplomat to university-builder. There are other men who have occupied the White House whose opinions should carry conviction because of their education and experience.

This is the statement made by Col. Roosevelt at New Orleans, September 7, 1914:

"One of the reasons why I do not believe in state ownership where it is possible to substitute for it supervision and regulation by the state is because in actual experience it has proved so very difficult to combine efficiency in service rendered and self-support in business undertaken by the state."

This is the statement of William H. Taft in a special message to congress, February 22, 1912:

"I believe that the true principle is that private enterprises should be permitted to carry on such public utilities under due regulation * * * by the proper authority, rather than that the government should itself conduct them. This principle I favor because I do not think it in accordance with the best public policy thus greatly to increase the body of public servants."

This is the statement of Woodrow Wilson in his book, "The State," chapter XVI, page 635:

"But the proposition that the government should control such * * * organizations of capital may by no means be meant to mean any necessary implication that the government should itself administer."

It is safe to assume that the last three presidents of the United States know something about the proposition.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT DREADNAUGHT IS? YOU BETTER LEARN

Lots of People Would Not Know One if They Met It on the Street.

Writer Also Describes Many Puzzling Names Used in Navy.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—When is a battleship a dreadnaught? And when is a dreadnaught a cruiser? Also, what is a capital ship?

H. C. Ferraby, naval writer, clears up some popular mistakes in answering these questions in a London newspaper. He says:

"We begin with capital ships, pointing out that the word 'capital' is used in its true etymological sense of 'head' or 'chief' and not in the colloquial sense of excellent. They are the ships which are intended to bear the brunt of the battle, hence they are battleships and battle cruisers. Light cruisers, destroyers and submarines are not capital ships.

"Battleships of today fall into two classes—the so-called dreadnaughts (with their journalistic subdivisions of super-dreadnaughts and hyper-dreadnaughts) and pre-dreadnaughts. This classification is purely a popular one, and was brought about by the introduction in 1905 of an entirely new design of battleship into the navy. The first ship of this design was called the Dreadnaught.

"It had been called the Viper or the Loyalty, it is probable that we should take today of vipers and pre-vipers or loyalties and pre-loyalties just as we speak of dreadnaughts and pre-dreadnaughts. Actually all ships referred to by these names are battleships, and they form the battle squadrons, the main fighting force of the British grand fleet.

"Next in importance to the battleships come the cruisers. At the same time as the dreadnaught type of battleship was introduced into the service we introduced a new type of cruiser, and better armored than any previous type of cruiser. These were called officially 'battle-cruisers' but unofficially are often referred to as 'dreadnaught cruisers.' The two phrases mean the same thing—cruisers which are fitted to form a wing of the battle squadron, to take part in a battle between the big ships, but are also fitted to play the usual part of cruisers, to cruise and scout.

"Before the coming of the battle-cruiser design the principal type of cruiser was the armored cruiser. This was not intended to take any prominent part in engagements between battleships. It was simply a heavy, well-armed scouting ship, useful also for such duty as convoy, or for patrol of trade routes to protect merchant ships against attack by enemy cruisers. Ships of this type are no longer being built for any of the naval powers.

"Reference is sometimes made to vessels called 'armed cruisers.' This is a mistake. A cruiser, being a man-of-war, is naturally armed. The mistake arises sometimes from the telegraphic abbreviation 'armed' for 'armored,' but the term is more generally applied to merchant ships serving as warships. The correct name for these is 'armed liners,' or, better still, 'auxiliary cruisers.'

"The bulk of what we have come to call the 'partial squadrons' in this war are composed of these auxiliaries. They are the ships which are doing the hardest work of blockade, the stopping and searching of all merchant ships for contraband and goods destined for the enemy. Many of them have also done good work in dealing with the type of warship known as 'commerce destroyers,' another phrase that may lead to confusion.

"Commerce destroyers are fast cruisers or auxiliary cruisers intended to destroy the seaborne commerce of an enemy. 'Destroyers' pure and simple are that large class of true warships built to deal with the torpedo menace to the big fighting ships.

"When the torpedo was first adopted as a weapon it was discharged at the target from a small ship called a torpedoboat. This small ship had to approach very near the target before it could be sure of its aim, and in order that it might be prevented from doing this a slightly larger, faster and more heavily gunned vessel was evolved called the torpedo boat destroyer. It did not destroy the torpedo. It destroyed the boat that was to fire the torpedo.

"The design was so successful that today the work of the torpedoboat and that of the destroyer as well is done by one class of vessel, which is called in the British navy a destroyer, and in the German a torpedoboat. The two designs are practically identical except that the British destroyers carry heavier guns than the German torpedoboats.

"Submarines have taken the place of the original torpedoboat, and are the weakest and smallest of the warcraft of any navy.

"Light cruisers are scouts pure and simple, though in a fleet action they work with the destroyers on the outskirts of the battle squadrons, warding off torpedo attacks by the enemy's small craft.

"One other phrase which occurs occasionally in official reports from the British admiralty requires explanation—'flotilla leaders.' These are a hybrid design, midway between a light cruiser and a destroyer, which act as the leading ships of a flotilla of destroyers. Just as it would be wrong to speak of a covey of geese, so it is wrong to speak of a squadron of destroyers or a flotilla of battleships. Destroyers and submarines work in flotillas, all other warships in squadrons.

"In English translation of German admiralty reports there sometimes occurs the phrase 'ship of the line.' This is a literal translation of the German 'Linien-schiff,' the equivalent of the English 'battleship.' It is also possible now and again to come across that hard old blunder 'ironclad.' There are no such ships today. They only existed for a little while during the Victoria era, when wooden ships were clad with iron in the course of the first experiments in armoring ships.

PEER'S GRANDDAUGHTER SELLING TOBACCO.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Lord Hather-ton's granddaughter, the pretty and dapper Miss Nora Littleton, is serving in a tobacco shop at Tiverton, Devonshire, nearly her father's (Hon. Edward Charles Howley Littleton) country seat, Holham House.

It is not out of want, however, that Miss Nora is helping Mrs. Richards, wife of a gallant soldier at the front, but because the latter is in poor health and finding it almost impossible to make ends meet in her business. She started in business on one afternoon a week, but she grew so keen that she begged to be allowed to serve on other days also. The result is that Miss Littleton has become tremendously popular with the customers, one of whom said the other day:

"You could have knocked me down with a feather, sir, when I heard as how the charming young lady was the granddaughter of a peer. She speaks to the customers just like one of ourselves, and serves as smart as the best of 'em."

PROSPERITY NOT DUE TO THE WAR

Business Canvass Indicates That Conditions Are Good in United States.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A country-wide business canvass made by the New York World, proves that the existing prosperity of the country in all lines of trade is independent of the war and the trade that has sprung from it. Six questions were asked by the World of the largest employers of labor in every section of the United States. Of 15 firms, widely scattered in various parts of the country, representing every class of industry, and employing $3,627 men, ten stated they are in no way concerned in the war. Three are commercially interested in the war and two indirectly interested. Nine of the industries represented are dependent on the tariff and six are not.

Four years ago these 15 concerns employed 60,427 men. The increase in the number of employees during the Wilson administration is thus 25,200, or 38.5 per cent. The total wages of the men employed by these firms in the month of July four years ago was $3,494,963. The pay roll for July, 1916, was $5,523,882, an increase of $2,028,919, or 58.7 per cent. In other words, the wages paid during the four years of the Wilson administration have increased at a rate nearly double that of the increase in the number of employees. The Willy-Overland Company of Toledo, Ohio, the president of which, John N. Willys, is collecting contributions for the republican campaign fund, reported an increase in the four years from 5,000 to 17,000 men and from $375,000 to $1,275,000 in the wages paid. The other firms included are located in California, Colorado, Iowa, Wisconsin, Tennessee, New Jersey, Washington, South Carolina, Ohio, New York, Illinois, Minnesota and Massachusetts.

BAR HIGH SCHOOL TO BOY "JOY-RIDERS"

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 3.—Joy-riding boys are not welcome in the public schools here, although their parents are prominent persons. The board of commissioners has upheld the action of George Buck, principal of Shortridge high school, in denying admittance to the school to two pupils who appeared recently in police court. Mr. Buck told the court of "joy-riding" in automobiles that did not belong to them, that although the judge had suspended their sentence during good behavior he did not think their actions would be good examples for other high school pupils.

MODESTY OF WOMAN

JUST WHEN the fashion idea is being agitated in the fall or in the spring we began to hear many comments and opinions about the indecorous way the women are dressing.

If it isn't a case of dresses which are too tight, too long, too transparent, and so on, it's a case of them being much too short. The tight skirts, according to mere men, were terrible, not to say—shock. But the full skirts, are unspeakable.

"The happy medium," I hear them shout. "Can't women dress just right, and not run to the extreme?" But just what is the extreme, and just where they can hit the happy medium is a question and a problem worth the solving—for the mere man, who naturally would find something wrong no matter what the dictates of fashion.

To judge the whole sex by a few, is a common error, for there are always some women, just as there are some men, who abuse the privileges of fashion, just as they do most anything. But simply because a woman wears a short skirt that is becoming, is no sign that she is without shame and indecent. The woman who wears the skirt as short as her young sister, is ridiculous of course, but I think it would be a difficult task in an ordinary crowd that one sees on the streets every day to find the majority like that.

It's more of a habit, than anything else—or at least we hope it is—for the members of the "less deadly," to criticize and disapprove of the fashion of their wives, sisters, mothers and daughters.

If their conceit did not blind them to the fact, they could apply most of their criticism and objection to their own fashions. Truly, the wisdom of woman and the severity of her ways was never better proved, than the silence which she keeps, when she might say volumes in self defense, and righteous criticism of her critic.

TIPS FROM TEXAS.

(Dallas News.)

Our advice to the "long, lean" purists is to beware of the short, full skirt.

Our guess is that about the only advantage in being deaf is in missing the brag stuff.

Probably if the cost of living goes much higher your grocer will begin selling beans by the bean.

Of course the motion pictures are educational—don't they teach kids how to act when they are being kissed?

Furthermore, if we ever go to the legislature we shall endeavor to make it unlawful for bill collectors to deliver lectures.

WOMEN LISTEN TO REASON.

You who suffer, why do you hesitate to try what has removed the sufferings of others? That good old fashioned remedy, made from roots and herbs—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—has stood the test. It has no rival in overcoming the ailments peculiar to your sex. Why should it not do for you what it has done for others? Give it a chance.

Striving

SOCIETY EQUESTRIENNE DYING AFTER FALLS AT HORSE SHOW

MRS. EDWARD SCOTT.

Mrs. Edward Scott, who was Miss Dora Voigt and is widely known socially and in horse show circles, is reported to be dying in the Memorial Hospital at Morristown, N. J., from a fractured skull.

She was injured at the nineteenth annual exhibition of the Morristown Field club when her mount stumbled at a hurdle and fell on her.

Mrs. Scott rode Hampton Roads, owned by Richard Morse, in the class for green hunters. The horse went down twice. On the second occasion

Mrs. Scott was picked up unconscious. On the first trial Hampton Roads came a cropper after almost clearing the jump, and Mrs. Scott very gamely remounted and continued in the event.

In his second attempt Hampton Roads pitched Mrs. Scott over his head and carried away the fence with rails, support and all.

Mrs. Scott announced her marriage on August 10. She is a teacher of riding and driving and counts among her pupils the children of the socially elect in the east.

Hints for the Housewife

Variety is still the spice of life; water; sprinkle with sugar when rolled out, and bake very quickly. Season with grated cocoanut, lemon or vanilla.

Cookies With No Butter or Eggs. Mix together 1 cup of sour milk, 1 cup of sugar, 1 teaspoon of hot pint white stock, seasoning, 2 tablespoons picked shrimps. Prawn for garnish, sprigs of parsley, 1 lemon cut in slits lengthwise.

Shrimp Sauce. Half a pint white sauce made from 1 ounce butter, 1 ounce flour, 1-2

Peach Canapés. Sauté circular pieces of sponge cake in butter until delicately browned. Drain canned peaches from their sirup (or use fresh fruit, if possible), cover with powdered sugar, and add a few drops of lemon juice and a slight grating of nutmeg. Melt 1 tablespoon of butter, add the peaches and enough sirup to keep them from burning, heat thoroughly and serve on the browned cake. Serve hot, with or without cream, as desired.

German Potato Fritters. Boil and put through the vegetable press three good-sized potatoes. Add three quarters of a tablespoon of butter, three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt, one and one-half teaspoons of sugar and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs. Mix well, form into small round, flat cakes, roll in a mixture made of three-quarters of a tablespoon of flour and three tablespoons of bread crumbs, and sauté in butter until well heated throughout and golden brown in color.

Turkish Pilaf. Heat a half-cup of strained tomatoes with one cup of stock or hot water, and when boiling, add a half-cup of blanched rice and a half-teaspoon of salt. Stir lightly with a fork until the liquor is absorbed, then add a quarter-cup of butter and cook over hot water until the rice is tender. Serve at once. To blanch rice, cover it with cold water in the proportion of a quarter-cup of rice or two cups of water. Put it over the fire, stirring occasionally while heating to prevent its sticking; boil five minutes, drain on a sieve, and rinse with cold water. The rice is now beautifully white and clear and the grains do not adhere.

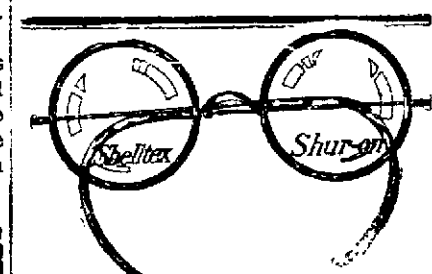

Chicken Pie. One chicken boned (reserve bones to make stock), one-fourth pound bacon, one-half pound sausage, one or two hard-boiled eggs. Cut the chicken into joints and place on

HUGHES HAS SLIM SHOW IN WISCONSIN G. O. P. WRITER SAYS

His Party is Stand Pat and Lafollette is Not Helping.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The New York Evening Mail, organ of George W. Perkins in the campaign of 1912 and now supporting Candidate Hughes, sent its special political writer, George C. Odell, to Wisconsin to canvass the political situation in that state.

Mr. Odell's report, which is published in the last night's Mail, tells of the many obstacles Mr. Hughes' candidacy is encountering in Wisconsin and presents an altogether gloomy outlook for this republican nominee. It is in part as follows:

"The hard part of it is that the national ticket is suffering partly because of conditions over which the candidates have no control, and partly, as nearly as can be discovered, because the Hughes campaign managers have misjudged political conditions in the state. The state republican committee, headed by George A. West, is in control of a crowd which could not in any circumstances get the support of progressive voters."

"In the meantime, the La Follette campaign is being conducted as an entirely independent venture. Neither the national nor the state committee has a dollar invested in that campaign, and no help has been asked for."

"Senator La Follette is making his whole campaign on three issues—preparedness, the tariff and the eight-hour law. On all three issues he is opposed to Mr. Hughes."

"A summing up of the Wisconsin situation seems to be that the balance of power lies with the independent voters who, to the number of 15,000, voted the progressive ticket in 1912. It is incontrovertible that many of them, probably a majority, are still on the fence."

"They are like the democratic state ticket and are more or less carried away with the claims of President Wilson, that have been responsible for much progressive legislation passed during his administration."

"It is useless to count on any help from Senator La Follette. It is equally useless to hope the republican state committee will do Hughes any good."

DEATH OF 3 WOMEN, SITTING IN CHAIRS, IS DEEP MYSTERY

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 3.—The mystery surrounding the deaths of the Misses Alice and Agnes Smetters and Miss Mary Stratton, found sitting in rocking chairs in the old Smetters mansion, today is as deep as ever, so far as an official verdict is concerned.

Coroner Bugh is awaiting the report of an analysis being made in Columbus of the stomach of one of the women and a piece of the pie the women evidently had eaten a few minutes before they died. He would not say why he had not sent some of the jam the women had been eating to Columbus for examination. Bugh does not credit a murder theory and scoffs at any suggestion of suicide. He is unable, however, to advance a theory as to how the women met their death. Although inclined to believe the women were victims of gas, Prosecutor James A. Tobin will make a probe. Lack of evidence that gas was escaping or absence of gas odor in the room in which the women were found has aroused his suspicions.

All officials and friends of the women are agreed that they did not commit suicide. No possible motive to account for a suicide pact can be advanced by any one.

TRAVELETTE BY NIKSAH.

ROTTERDAM.

Rotterdam harbor in some ways is more picturesque than the harbor of New York. There are no fringing skyscrapers, but there is as much life and movement, more color and contrast, a finer sweep of line and grouping, of detail. The many canals that surround it, the quaint craft that ply up and down, the flying bridges that close many of the distant vistas, all these combine with the rich color of sky and water to make a whole that smacks more of the suffering of romance, and less of the searing of commerce that is the keynote of our harbors today. The canals carry this same flavor into the city itself. You see the quiet domestic life of Holland playing itself out on the clumsy barges. There is something intimately attractive about these maritime homes that has at the same time the elements of humor. A canal boat is a humorous spectacle anyway. The contrast between the idea of a life on the wave between the atmosphere of romance and high adventure that clings to boats and water and the washing, their children and their livestock, is a perennial jest.

The canal-boat in Holland however, is as much a feature of the landscape as the windmill, and much more so than the girl in blue calico and wooden shoes. The men that man the barges have the real seafaring strain in their veins, and would as leave work a square-rigger to Sumatra as smoke their pipes on the waters between green fields. They lend the absurd barges a certain dignity when you remember what they and their kin have done on the sea.

On shore, in Rotterdam, the traditional Dutchman is not in evidence. The national costume may still persist in out-of-the-way country districts, but here in the city the native is only remarkable for his passion for an inadequate little hat. Otherwise his costume is disappointingly conventional. Nor is he fat and stolid, disillusioning to relate, but more often tall and lean and extensible. In order to convince yourself that the land is really Holland it is necessary to climb the tallest local skyscraper and look abroad.

Sidney To Play At Murphy Park Next Sunday

The fast Sidney team will be the attraction at Murphy street park next Sunday afternoon. This will be the second meeting of the two clubs. On the other occasion the Independents defeated them.

However, according to the manager of the Sidney crew, the regular pitcher was not in the box during the game here. His name is Limphium and is considered one of the best semi-pro pitchers in this part of the state.

The fact that Sidney has lost only two games and has won 22 is sufficient proof of the calibre of the club. The Independent club is the only team that has not been defeated by his fast crowd is because they have not played the second game. The other team that defeated Sidney was later taken into camp by them.

Lima with a record of 22 wins and three defeats stands about equal to Sidney when it comes to delving into the history of the teams this season. From these indications it appears that the clubs are about equally

PROMISING CONNECTICUT LIGHTWEIGHT

CHIC BROWN

The state of Connecticut can produce something else besides the famous wooden nutmegs and the more or less famous Yale graduates. Her latest bid for fame is "Chic" Brown, a promising lightweight who acquired state championship in his division last June by knocking out Al Kersch of Bridgeport, in the eleventh round.

Brown started in four years ago as an amateur and quickly annexed the state amateur championships in the 115, 125 and 135 pound classes. Two years ago he entered the professional ranks. He has boxed a number of good eastern lightweights and has never been knocked out. He is 21 years of age.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—The silverware of King Peter of Serbia will be one of the features of the "war exhibition" which is to be opened shortly in Danzig.

When the exiled Serbian ruler had fled from Belgrade he did not find time to remove his silver to a place of safety, which consists of hundreds of ancient plates, chandeliers, vases, pitchers, picture frames and other articles of wonderful workmanship and is valued at more than $1,000,000, fell into the hands of Germany Infantry regiment No. 129 and was sent to Graudenz, the garrison of the regiment, for safe keeping. After the war the silver will be returned to the aged Serbian monarch if he makes a request for it.

WHEN YOU stop to realize the number of sound, conservative men who have changed over to Fatimas in the last six months, it surely indicates that Fatimas must offer something no other cigarette can offer.

Perhaps you haven't thought of it this way:

Do you know any other cigarette that is always cool and comfortable? Do you know any other cigarette beside Fatimas that leaves a man feeling fine and "fit" even after a long-smoking day?

It is these qualities that make Fatimas truly sensible.

Dodgers Gained On Philadelphia Yesterday P. M.

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—All that is necessary for the Dodgers to win the pennant in Governor Tener's baseball league is for them to win three more games from the Giants, just that and nothing more. Should they turn the trick, the Phillies cannot mingle in the blue ribbon event of base ball even if they win all their four remaining games. The Dodgers with a full game lead on this date, seem to have "edged" the Phillies again. The advantage is all with the Brooklynites at this moment. Base ball is a funny game, though, and before sunset tonight a new shift may come in the scenery.

The Dodgers have three more games to play to complete their schedule and all are with the Giants. They don't have to play any more double headers. The Phillies have four more combats to face—all with the Braves—and two are doubled up today. The Phillies pitching staff just now seems pretty well worn out. For the first game today Moran undoubtedly will pick Rixey—but who will work in the second? Will he place his trust in the erratic Mayer or will he call upon Ancient Bender? Or will Grover Alexander, already worked nearly to his limit be called upon to pitch again? Even should Rixey and Alexander pitch—and win—both games today, who will do the work in the game tomorrow? Demarcus was easy for the Braves yesterday. He may not be so much in a comeback—and he may be easier. The Dodgers, on the other hand, are in a strong position as regards pitchers. Cheney hasn't worked since Thursday and should be fit today. Jeffer and Marquard either should be in shape to take a whirl in the box on Wednesday. The other can perform on Thursday.

Should the Dodgers win their remaining three games and the Phillies win their four, the season would end with the Dodgers ahead by half a game, thusly:

Dodgers	55	59
Phillies	51	59

The only real hope for the Phillies now is for them to win all their four games and then hope that John McGraw and his gang hand the Dodgers at least one belt. Otherwise—taps for the Phillies.

Lima Tigers To Practice Sunday

The Lima Tigers will be the first amateur foot ball team to organize in Lima this season, according to the report of the manager of the club. The eleven will be made up principally of members of the ball club that cleaned up the amateur teams of the city and surrounding towns. The training of the lads will be in charge of Manager Keller. Next Sunday the lads will hold their first practice of the season. Arrangements will be made to hold scrimmages several times a week in order to keep in condition while the team is in action during the season. The following aspirants for positions on the teams will receive try-outs Sunday: Cox, Keller, Baker, Barnes, Boyd, Verbrake, Marrol, Kieffer, Allen, Loeie, Kerr, Ried and Phillips. Games have been booked with Columbus Grove, Wapakoneta, Van Wert, Delphos and Findlay.

Pretty Hard On Referee Thomas

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 3.—After Referee Hub O'Brien had declared the 20-round bout between Frankie Russell and Joe Thomas, of New Orleans, a draw last night, Thomas knocked the referee down. The decision was not popular with the spectators either.

Star Lost.

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 3.—A stumble has deprived Illinois of Clarence Applegram, veteran who was being groomed for end on Coach Zuppke's eleven. Applegram was running down the field with the ball and in trying to avoid a tackler fell. Two bones in his right ankle were broken and he will be out of the game for the rest of the season.

Use Coins That Have History

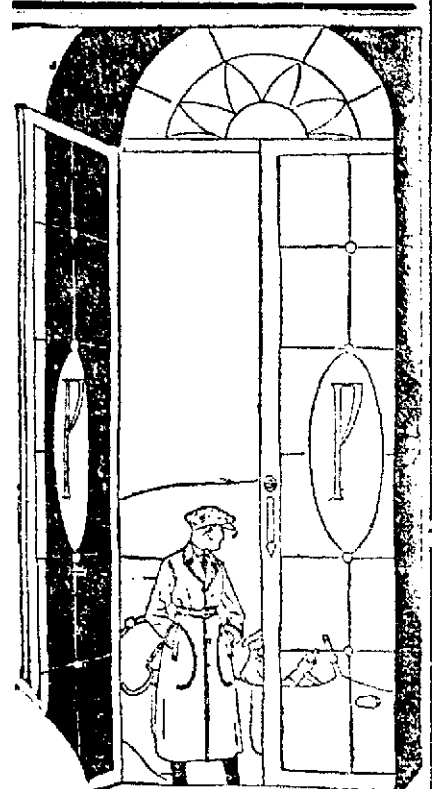

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—John Heydler, secretary of the National league has a set of coins which he values very much and which expected a new brother this month. However, from present indications, it looks as though there will be no new brother at all.

Heydler has made a collection of the various coins used by national commission in deciding where the first game of the world's series was to be played, and naturally looked for an increase in his coin family at world's series time.

During the preparations for the present world's series the ceremony of tossing the coin is almost certain to be omitted. It is practically a certainty that the first game of the 1915 world's series will be played on Braves' field, Boston, which park has the largest capacity of any base ball field in the country, about 42,000. President Baker of the Phillies announced yesterday that in the event the Quakers win he will waive the privilege of an equal chance to open the series in Philadelphia and ask the commission to have the series open in Boston.

Come Back?

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Gunboat Smith who is the latest living example of a heavyweight boxer who can come back will get into action again tomorrow night at the Broadway Sporting club in Brooklyn, when he will tackle Joe Cox, the Springfield (Ohio) heavyweight. It is the intention of Smith to take on all the big fellows and dispose of them so that he can get another chance at Champion Jess Willard. The Pioneer Sporting club will offer for its main attraction on Thursday night a ten-round bout between Jack Denning and the new Al McCoy, with a semi-final between Artie McGovern and Dave Medar.

As he ran from the room his flaming clothing set fire to the enamel in other pots and the factory was ignited in 30 places. The fire loss was $12,000. Valade's condition is critical.

Corrected to Date

Market and the market tone were irregular today in the early trading on the stock exchange, with the recently prominent stocks showing slight recessions while many of the specialties developed pronounced strength and made vigorous advances.

Most interest was attached to the trading in the equipment shares because of the report of new foreign orders for locomotives and railway equipment generally. American Locomotive rose 2 1/2 points to 84 1/2, and Baldwin Locomotive after selling at 92 1/2 advanced to 93 1/2. New York Airbrake rose 2 1/2 points to 156 1/4.

International Paper continued in demand, the common opening two points higher at 33, and the preferred advancing 1 1/2 points at the start to 96. There was further accumulation of Crucible Steel, which advanced 1 1/2 to 96 1/2. Steel common was in supply and declined 1/2 to 117 1/2.

Trading in the copper shares was quiet and these issues showed little change from last night's close. The copper shares showed a weak tone, Utah declining from 95 1/2 to 93 1/2, and fractional losses were sustained in Anaconda, Inspiration and others. CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—Diamond Dick is dead. And Fred Farnot, Buffalo Bill, the James boys and all the rest of that highly entertaining blood-and-thunder crew are singing their swan songs. Those red-blooded heroes of our own youth will be unknown figures to our children.

For the five-cent weeklies with the flashy covers and exhilarating contents are doomed. Within a year say publishers and magazine distributors, they shall have disappeared from the news stands.

No more will Fred Farnot make a flying catch of Nellie, the cloak model, as she goes hurtling over the edge of a 10,000 foot precipice propelled by death-dealing Archie, the villain. No more will the James boys dash into the western mining town, snuff every one quickly to cover with a fusillade of shots, and dash madly away again, their horses weighted with the bags of gold that were to have been dealt out for the mine's monthly payroll. No more again shall Buffalo Bill and his gallant band surprise the Indian camp and compel the startled Redskins to bite the dust.

Likewise, no more will startled parents surprise Johnny out behind the barn (or the garage) immersed to the ears in the daring exploits of his heroes and allowing his youthful fancy to wander to other adventures even more thrilling. No longer will it be necessary for the said fond parent to effect a capture by a quick flank movement and participate in an ensuing woodshed tragedy.

The five-cent weeklies, like Ouster, are making their last stand.

To use their own famous expressions, their "doom is sealed."

Eastern publishers have just announced that they will discontinue shortly publications of this class, because of the increased cost of white paper. Cleveland publishers, however, insist paper has not yet gone so high as to seriously affect the profit if the circulation had remained what it was a few years' back.

It's really a big falling off in the circulation that is sealing the doom of the weeklies, they claim. In Cleveland and vicinity less than one-third the number of copies are being sold today as two years ago.

This loss of circulation is attributed to two things—the movies and the fact that the young idea is being taught along different literary lines.

News dealers point out that their sales are no longer to small boys, but to "old timers," who started reading them back in the 80's and 90's, and have not outgrown the habit.

Public libraries and boy scout organizations are given credit for diverting the small boys' literary taste.
